

The University of North Carolina School of the Arts is seeking a progressive Director of Public Safety/Police Chief who is leader focused on community engagement and who has a successful track record of building strong collaborative relationships. The School of the Arts is a public coeducational arts conservatory in Winston-Salem, North Carolina that grants high school, undergraduate and graduate degrees. The University is the state's unique professional school for the performing, visual and moving image arts, training students at the high school, undergraduate and graduate levels for professional careers in the arts. The university has an enrollment of approximately 2200 students.

Located in the Piedmont Triad area of North Carolina, Winston-Salem is the fifth largest city in North Carolina. It is home to six colleges and universities including Salem College, the longest, continuously running women's college in the U.S., as well as the prestigious Wake Forest University and Winston-Salem State University. Although traditionally associated with the textile and tobacco industries, Winston-Salem is transforming itself to be a leader in the nanotech, high-tech and bio-tech fields. Medical research is a fast-growing local industry, and Wake Forest Baptist Medical Center is the largest employer in Winston-Salem.

The University of North Carolina School of the Arts Police Department is a professional police department providing the same level of service offered by municipal police departments, as well as other services unique to an arts conservatory. Members of the department work closely with the Deans of each of the five schools, student affairs, faculty, administrators, and students in creating and maintaining a secure atmosphere. The jurisdiction of the department includes all University property, owned or leased, and adjacent streets and maintains mutual aid agreements with the City of Winston-Salem. The department is staffed by sixteen sworn police officers, five telecommunicators, and an Emergency Manager. Officers patrol on foot, patrol cars, and bicycles.

The police chief reports to the Vice-Chancellor for Business Affairs and is responsible for organizing, directing, and supervision of the day to day activities and operations of the university's police and emergency management planning/response. In addition, the Chief is also responsible for administering the college's compliance with the Clery Act and its requirement. More information about the department can be found at:

<https://www.uncsa.edu/mysa/police/>

Minimum Qualifications: A minimum education of a Master's degree in criminal justice or a related field with a minimum of ten years of public safety experience and five years of senior supervisory/managerial experience at command staff level or an equivalent combination of education and experience.

Preferred Qualifications: Experience working in a senior level administrative position in a higher education environment.

How to Apply: Applicants must complete a UNC School of the Arts application at:

<https://employment.uncsa.edu/postings/3213>

Applications and resume review begins May 20, 2017. Secondary screening of qualified applicants will be conducted by Developmental Associates and will begin after May 31, 2017. An assessment center for selected finalists will be held June 26 and 27, 2017 (previously scheduled for June 13-14) on the campus of the School of the Arts. The University of North Carolina School of the Arts is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Employer.